NUMBER CCIX.

ELECTIONEERING MADE EASY; Or Seven Short (and Narrow) Cuts to Office.

Now that it is pretty well concluded to have the Newspapers read in the Public Schools, and as the Supper Table Series were unanimously decided upon at the last reported meeting on the subject, we have been at some trouble and expense to rear an appropriate column to the event.

For purposes of declamation, exclamation, or acclamation (for as an ation of any kind we have no equal), the following lessons cannot fall of being of great service.

It is calculated that every third boy at our Public Schools will some day become President, the others Governors, Mayors, or other offices requiring electioneering abilities to obtain, besides the requisite votes of their fellow-citizens—which latter, however, is a minor point. Our instructions, then, would run, thusly:—

1. The Expostulatory.

"Do you consider, gentlemen, that I could be capable of such a course of action?"

After that had been well rehearsed, the pupil would then be ready for the second position.

2. The Economical.

"We have ten millions for fortifications, fourteen billions for the Freedman's Bureau, five millions for vessels of war, etc."

This is a very powerful position to take on the stand. It can be very judiciously succeeded by the next.

3. The Energetic.

"And without hesitation, gentlemen, I would say, hurl them from your pinnacles of power!"

This, of course, is not so difficult to practise as No. 2, as it has not the fine points, but its value is in being brought in at the right time. Like the roll of the kettle-drums in an orchestra, it is not much to do, but very telling if done at the right moment.

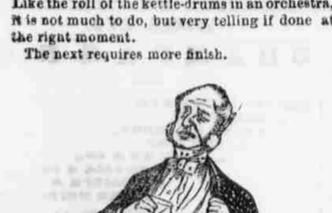

The next requires more finish.

4. The Egotistical.

"I feel perfectly confident, gentlemen, of the result of your verdict at the polls."

This is to be used where there are prospects of a very close vote, or doubts of success. The next always brings down the house.

5. The Explosive.

"I will not be put down by clamor, gentlemen."

This will insure silence from your opponents and admiration from your friends, particularly those of the rural districts.

The next requires some practice.

6. The Exalted.

"Such a course would be fatal—yes, gentlemen, fatal to the peace of the world."

This is to be indulged when arguments are getting low, or when your case is not susceptible of much argument. You put it on the plea that it is beyond discussion. But the crowning point is found in the neat doing of the last position, known as

7. The Equable.

"And pray, gentlemen, what has my opponent done for his country? I may even ask, what has he done for himself?"

With these few instructions, it is to be hoped the rising generation may see a political canvass carried on with some sort of elocutionary virtue, if no other kind.

Sir Francis Head, speaking of the pleasure of the chase, gives an anecdote of a hard arguer in favor of fox-hunting in these words:—"Said the haughty Countess of — to an aged huntsman, who, cap in hand, had humbly invited her ladyship to do him the honor to come and see his hounds, 'I dislike everything belonging to hunting—it is so cruel!' 'Cruel!' replied the old man, with apparent astonishment, 'why, my lady, it can't possibly be cruel, for, said he, logically, holding up three fingers in succession, 'we all know that the gentlemen like it, and we all know that the hounds like it, and, after a long pause, 'none on us can know for certain that the foxes don't like it.'"

"My dear," said Mr. B. to his wife, while his smiling countenance indicated the consciousness of having done a good action, "I have just had my life insured for your benefit."

"Well, I declare," exclaimed Mrs. B., looking around upon her family and friends with an expression of injured innocence, "just to think of the selfishness of men, and particularly of husbands! There you have been and had your life insured, while your poor wife may go without any insurance on her's. It's just what I would expect of you!" she fretfully exclaimed, and was only recalled to a sense of her injustice and absurdity by hearing an uncontrollable burst of laughter all around her.

A rich miser was visited on his death-bed by a fellow-miser, who for want of a better subject, began to talk about his funeral. "It will cost a great deal," said he; "there will be the monument—"

"Oh! don't have any monument."

"And the plumes—"

"Oh! don't have any plumes."

"And the flowers, and rosewood coffin, and carriages—"

"Don't have any carriages; I had rather go on foot."

A lady received a visit from her doctor. After deluging him with words she finally asked, "What am I to do?"

"Nothing but to rest."

"But my tongue, Doctor—just look at my tongue!"

"Well, well, your tongue needs rest most of all."

Dr. Barton, being in company with Dr. Nash, who had just printed two heavy folios on the antiquities of Worcestershire, remarked that the publication was deficient in several respects, adding, "Pray, doctor, are you not a justice of the peace?" "I am," replied Nash. "Then," said Barton, "I advise you to send your work to the house of correction."

A choleric old gentleman, becoming enraged at the stupidity of an aged and faithful servant, exclaimed, "Zounds! you dolt, I shall go out of my wits at your dullness!" To which the honest old servant replied, "Well, there is one comfort, master—you won't have to go far!"

"It's a good thing to have a handsome penman for a beau," said Mary, as she glanced over a billet-doux. "Yes," replied Julia, "if the penman is only handsome, I don't care how ugly the penmanship is."

An Irishman, being in church where the collection apparatus resembled the election boxes, on its being handed to him, whispered in the carrier's ear that he was not naturalized and could not vote.

A father was reproached with marrying his son too early. "Wait till he is a little more reasonable," was the advice.

"Ah! in that case," sighed the father, "he would never marry at all."

"You and your wife should be one," said a friendly adviser to a hen-pecked husband. "Become one!" exclaimed hen-pecked, "why, we are ten now." "How so?" "She's I and I'm 0."

"Mr. Smith, the hogs are getting into your corn-field." "Never mind, Billy, I'm sleepy. Corn won't hurt 'em."

"Go to the ant, thou sluggard!"—yet there are many idle poor who prefer to go to their uncle.

CHARITABLE BEQUESTS.

The Will of Maria M. Stinnecke. The Baltimore Sun of yesterday says:—The will of Miss Mary M. Stinnecke, of this city, admitted to probate yesterday in the Orphan's Court of this city, contains the following bequests:—To the American Bible Society, $2500; to the Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church, $2500; to the American Bible Society for publication of the Holy Scriptures, $2500; to the Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church, to educate a Chinese boy to be named Henry A. Stinnecke, $1000; to the same, to educate a girl to be named Maria Ann Stinnecke, $1000; to the American Sunday School Union, $1000; to the Episcopal Indian Mission in Minnesota, $1000; to the Methodist Preachers' Aid Society of Maryland, $1250; to the Board of Trustees of Princeton College, New Jersey, to found a scholarship in said college, to be called the Maria M. Stinnecke scholarship, $300, one-third of the proceeds of sale of property to be sold in aid of forming the Stinnecke scholarship in the college of New Jersey. To the board of elders of the Northern diocese of the Church of United Brethren, U. S. A., for the maintenance and education of a student who will devote himself to the service of the Lord in the foreign mission field, one-third of the proceeds of said sale; also one-third to Sarah Rich, for life, and after her death to the American Seaman's Friend Society. After paying all debts and legacies, she gives $500 to the American Bible Society for the publication of the Holy Scriptures in foreign languages, all the rest and residue to be divided into two equal parts, one half of which to be paid to the Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church for spreading the Scriptures among the Indians, and the other half to the Board of Domestic Missions of the Presbyterian Church for missions among the Indians.

The whole amount of bequests is $10,250, besides the proceeds of sale of certain property devoted to other benevolent purposes, the value of which is not stated. The revenue stamps on the will indicate the value of the property of the deceased to be $30,000. The will is dated November 17, 1868. John R. Kelso and William A. Stewart are named executors. The deceased was a highly respected maiden lady of Baltimore, who died suddenly while on a visit to Carlisle, Pa., aged about forty years.

—The municipality of Missolonghi have resolved to raise a monument to Lord Byron, on the spot where the poet breathed his last. One-half of the cost of the monument is to be defrayed by the municipality, and the other half to be obtained by public subscription.

1000 MILES

OF THE

UNION PACIFIC RAILROAD

ARE NOW COMPLETED.

As 500 miles of the Western portion of the line, beginning at Sacramento, are also done, but

267 MILES REMAIN

To be finished to open the Grand Through Line to the Pacific. This opening will certainly take place early this season.

Besides a donation from the Government of 12,800 acres of land near the line, the Company is entitled to a subsidy in United States Bonds of its line as completed and accepted, at the average rate of about $2,500 per mile, according to the difficulties encountered, for which the Government takes a second lien as security. Whether subsidies are given to any other companies or not, the Government will comply with all its contracts with the Union Pacific Railroad Company. Nearly the whole amount of bonds to which the Company will be entitled have already been delivered.

FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS

AT PAR.

By its charter, the Company is permitted to issue its own FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS in the same amount as the Government Bonds, AND NO MORE. These Bonds are a First Mortgage upon the entire road and all its equipments.

THEY HAVE THIRTY YEARS TO RUN, AT SIX PER CENT., and both

PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST

ARE

PAYABLE IN GOLD.

Such securities are generally valuable in proportion to the length of time they have to run. The longest term of these Bonds is 30 years, and they are worth 112. If they had 30 years to run, they would stand at not less than 125. A Perfectly safe First Mortgage Bond like the Union Pacific should approach this rate. The demand for European investment is already considerable, and on the completion of the work will doubtless carry the price to a large premium.

SECURITY OF THE BONDS.

It needs no argument to show that a First Mortgage of $25,000,000 per mile upon what for a long time must be the only railroad connecting the Atlantic and Pacific States is PERFECTLY SECURE. The entire amount of the mortgage will be about $30,000,000, and the interest $1,800,000 per annum in gold. The present currency cost of this interest is less than $2,500,000 per annum, while the gross earnings of the year 1868, FROM WAY BUSINESS only, ON AN AVERAGE OF LESS THAN 700 MILES OF ROAD IN OPERATION, WERE MORE THAN

The details of which are as follows:—

From Passengers	$1,234,000
Freight	2,940,233
Expenses	5,423

Miscellaneous	91,627
Government troops	104,077
Freight	489,403
Contractors' mch.	201,179
Material	868,492
Total	$5,096,631

This large amount is only an indication of the immense traffic that must go over the through line in a few months, when the great tide of Pacific coast travel and trade will begin. It is estimated that this business must make the earnings of the road from FIFTEEN TO TWENTY MILLIONS A YEAR.

As the supply of these Bonds will soon cease, parties who desire to invest in them will find it for their interest to do so at once. The price for the present is par and accrued interest from Jan. 1, in currency.
